CHATHAM High School formally announced its dux of the school for 2010 in a special school assembly last Wednesday.

Former school captain, Emily Wood was presented with her certificate and her name was engraved on the honour board after being the highest academic achiever at the school.

Year adviser, Rebecca Humphries introduced Emily, praising her for her dedication and commitment to her studies as well as her extra curricular activities.

"Emily was an exemplary representative for the school and I can't speak highly enough of her work ethic and friendly personality."

In her address to the assembly, Emily offered some advice for the students in their future school endeavours and urged them all to make the most of their time in the classroom, before reminding everyone that there are other options available. "School isn't the end of the world, there are plenty of other ways you can get to where you want to be, as long as you try your hardest."
