

Chatham's shield clash

REGIONAL champions Chatham High will play Sydney school Hoxton Park in a round of 16 University Shield rugby league game at the Jack Neal Oval on Thursday.

The game will kickoff at 11am.

Chatham has produced some outstanding football to qualify for the match.

Five-eighth Zac Sheather, Shaqu Goolagong, Dane Coskerie and Trae Clarke have been in top form for the side.

The school will look to transfer the game to another local field if the Jack Neal Oval is ruled out because of the recent wet weather.

It's been a good year for the school's rugby league teams, with Chatham winning the Manning championship in the under 13s, 14s, 16s open divisions.

Meanwhile in Group Three Rugby League this weekend two games will be played on Saturday with one on Sunday.

Old Bar will host Forster-Tuncurry at the Trad Field while Taree City heads to Port Macquarie to play Port City on Saturday.

On Sunday Wingham will play Wauchope at the Wingham Sporting Complex. There will be a preview in Friday's Times.
