Relevant Experiences since leaving school (eg special achievements)

I didn't complete my HSC initially. Went off to work instead and quickly realised that was a mistake. I returned to school to do my final year, and obtained a job with the Public Service. Beginning a career path and simultaneously doing an external university degree suited my lifestyle and was a better financial option. It made learning more relevant and useful also. I work hard and do the best job I can; once I put my mind to something. That quality has served me well in terms of career success

Other comments /Memories from Chatham High Days

I was Awaba House Captain at one time and clearly remember great swimming and other carnivals. I remember great friends and teachers who I continue to hold dear. I remember and still have copies of "The Griffin" magazine. A great school with a great sense of community.
